It is this fact which gives significance to all memorial emblems, whether they be institutions, monuments, statues, or tablets; for they each and all seek to perpetuate deeds and the quality of lives which have won the admiration of mankind. We realize this in the efforts made to keep alive by private and specific emblems the affectionate memory and example of our departed relatives and friends, to whom we fondly attribute most of the virtues; but there is also a generic quality in the tribute to patriotism when the universal public concentrates its admiration upon an ideal, more or less frequently represented by an individual example, worthy of the emulation of all men. Indeed, it is this ideal - the measure of a character lying behind all action - as well as the deeds themselves which we seek to commemorate. This endowment appears to be inherent in human nature; and hence among all nations and in all periods of time we find monuments commemorative of those esteemed to be wise, or good, or heroic; which monuments are at one and the same time evidences of the grandeur of genuine manhood, and the authoritative teachers of all subsequent generations.
