Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.This publication, Homeland Defense (Joint Publication 3-27), provides doctrine for the defense of the US homeland across the range of military operations. It provides information on command and control, interagency and multinational coordination, and operations required to defeat external threats to, and aggression against, the homeland. Defense of the homeland is the Department of Defense's (DOD's) highest priority with the goal to defeat threats at a safe distance from the homeland. Homeland defense (HD) is the protection of US sovereignty, territory, domestic population, and critical defense infrastructure against external threats and aggression, or other threats as directed by the President. DOD is responsible for the HD mission, and therefore leads the HD response, with other departments and agencies in support of DOD efforts. In today's complex threat environment, our approach to HD must address all aspects of the operational environment. Externally, the United States has sought to shape the international environment through the application of diplomatic, economic, military, and informational means. The homeland is confronted by a variety of interrelated threats that demand coordinated procedures and synchronized efforts among US Government (USG) departments and agencies charged with law enforcement and national defense. These threats include any transnational activity including international terrorism, narcotics trafficking, the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and the delivery systems for such weapons, and organized crime that threatens the national security of the United States. These threats also include extremists and opportunists who enter into relationships of convenience that exploit the capabilities of the other and cloud the distinction between crime and terror. Evidence suggests that terrorist organizations have grown more extreme in their objectives and actions and...
