Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 244 pages. I am Rhone, a 68 year old Caucasian American, a Cajun, code named Pop, and I have been writing my memoirs, about assimilation, faith, symbolism, and patriotism, in my head for most of my life. I, Rhone, dared not write most of my life experiences down on paper for fear of ridicule, until my experiences could be related with some semblance of credibility. I, Rhone Sonnier Louviere, a US Army Vietnam Era Veteran, 1962-65, have visions, dreams, and or nightmares of incidents from long ago. Names have been withheld from military accounts in order to observe military decorum (code names have been used). There is no malintent in this, my memoir, towards the Vietnamese people, US Military or other entities. One particular incident was a special black covert operation that occurred in Vietnam in July 1962, and it is this recurring nightmare and subsequent spiritual experience which propels me even deeper into my past to a point where I am obsessed with finding the facts about my military brothers, Snicker and Nickel. The truth surrounding my own family, and that of my Soulmate and childhood sweetheart, Barbara Miller Sonniers family (wife of fifty years) are written to describe cultural assimilation in Biloxi. I have experienced tragic incidents during my entire life. When a child of less than five years of age, I was was confronted by a castaway dog named Gumbo and an alligator, and much later in my life in a harrowing experience where I, along with two of my men, are saved by a Phantom Spirit. A mental plague of visions, dreams, and nightmares compel me to mentally exploit the past through conversations with my Daddy, wife Barbara, brother Joe, and research. This is a search to separate embellished fact from...
